WAITING AT THE MUSEUM

There are many times in my day when I have to wait. Waiting can be hard.

Waiting is a lot like taking turns. At the museum, there are many activities where I might have to wait my turn.

I will have to wait in line to get my tickets to enter the museum.

If my group has tickets for the train, we might have to wait for our turn to get on the train.

If I want to climb on the tree houses in Hideaway Woods, I might have to wait my turn to go across the rope bridges and go down the slide.

If I see an exhibit that I would like to touch, there may be another child already there and I might have to wait my turn.

There may be many children in the sand pit and I might have to wait to play with the trucks.

Waiting might be hard for me
but I will wait my turn so that all of the children will have a good time at the museum.

There are some activities at the museum where I don't have to wait.

I can walk on the Dinosaur Trail.

I can look at the wild animals in the Explore the Wild area.

I can look at the farm animals
in the Farmyard area.

I know that I might have to wait
to see some things at the Museum. This is OK.

If there is something I want to do where I have to wait, I will decide if I want to wait.

If I do not want to wait, I will choose something to do where I do not have to wait.

I will have fun at the museum.
